

Contributors

Gołdziowski Cezary – a PhD student at the Faculty of Political Science and International Studies, University of Warsaw.

Kaučič Igor – professor of constitutional law at the University of Ljubljana, Faculty of Law, where until recently he was also the Vice-Dean and the Head of the Chair of Constitutional Law. Within the field of constitutional law his research is focused primarily on the law of direct democracy as well as on the parliamentary law and the constitutional procedural law. Professor Kaučič has published numerous articles, commentaries, discussions and books on these subjects, two of which cover the field of the constitutional and legislative referendum. He frequently participates in expert groups responsible for preparing amendments of the Constitution of the Republic of Slovenia (in 2013, he led an expert group that prepared a proposal for constitutional changes in the field of legislative referendum). He participates in expert groups preparing systemic legislation in the field of frame of government, particularly referendum and parliamentary law.

Kraśnicka Izabela – holds a doctoral degree in law and works at the Department of International Law at the Faculty of Law, University of Białystok. Her research fields include public international law, legal system of the United States and legal education.

Kuźelewska Elżbieta – professor of the University of Białystok, the chair of the Centre for Direct Democracy Studies at the Faculty of Law, University of Białystok. Her research interests are focused on direct democracy, civic engagement in political life, and the social dimension on European integration. She published two monographs in Polish: “Referendum w procesie integracji europejskiej” (2005) “Ratyfikacja Traktatu ustanawiającego Konstytucję dla Europy i jego następstwa” (2011) and ca. 100 articles. She is Editor-in-Chief of the series “European Integration and Democracy Series” published by Intersentia: Cambridge-Antwerp.

Łukaszewski Marcin – PhD, assistant professor at the Adam Mickiewicz University in Poznań. Interested in political systems of the European countries, especially so-called microstates (Andorra, Monaco, Liechtenstein, San Marino and the Vatican City State).

Michalczuk-Wlizio Marta – PhD, lawyer and political scientist, assistant professor at the Faculty of Political Science, Maria Curie-Skłodowska University in Lublin. Her research interests focus on the Polish constitutional law, internal security and political systems of European states. Former member of the Civil Service Corps.

Muradishvili Khatuna – PHD of public governance. Associated professor of Grigol Robakidze University Batumi branch Khatuma Muradishvili, Grigol Robakidze University, Georgia.

Perkowska Magdalena – Dr, holds a PhD degree in law and teaches at the Faculty of Law, University of Białystok, Poland. Her areas of interest concern: criminal law, criminology (with special emphasis on the foreigners' criminality, border criminality, Swiss criminal law). She was junior scholar at Department of Criminal Law and Criminology, Faculty of Law, University of Bern, Switzerland in 2009. She is the author of about 70 publications. In 2014 she received a prestigious scholarship from the Ministry of Science and higher education for young scholars. She was the main researcher in the scientific project: "SIC – Modular multi-task Foreigner Identification System with a module for analysis of human trafficking crime victims."

Podolak Małgorzata – Professor at the Faculty of Political Science, Maria Curie-Skłodowska University in Lublin. Her research interests focus on the processes of democratization and Europeanization in post-Yugoslav states, direct democracy in European states, political system of Poland and European states, environmental policy.

Puchalska Bogumiła – Dr, studied law in Białystok and Warsaw, before completing her LL.M and PhD (funded by British Academy) at Lancaster University. She is currently based in the Lancashire Law School, UCLAN in Preston, UK. Her main publications focus on constitutionalism, democracy, political and legal theory, including in relation to the EU.

Rachwał Marcin – PhD in Political Science, assistant professor, Faculty of Political Science and Journalism, Adam Mickiewicz University in Poznań. Research interests: democracy, political elites, election law, civic society, political transformation in Poland and Central and Eastern Europe.

Ratto Trabucco Fabio – PhD in Constitutional Law, Adjunct Professor in Public Law, University of Venice. Visiting researcher in several Universities of Central-Eastern EU countries (Czech Republic, Estonia, Hungary, Latvia, Lithuania, and Slovakia). His research projects are mainly in the field of Comparative local administration, self-government, electoral systems, as well as direct democracy and human rights in Central-Eastern European countries.

Sarott Chasper – a Swiss career diplomat. After having grown up in the canton of Grisons, he studied law in Zurich and Berlin. As a civil servant he was posted to Austria, Kazakhstan, Lebanon and Poland.

Toszek Bartłomiej H. – political analyst, assistant professor at the University of Szczecin (Institute of Political and European Sciences), international co-operation expert at the West Pomeranian Marshal Office; specializing in British and Welsh political systems, the European Union and the United Kingdom regional policy, political development (especially in external relations) of the European regions (in Poland, Nordic states and the UK); an author and co-author of “Proces integracji Wielkiej Brytanii ze Wspólnotami Europejskimi” 1961-1975 (Toruń 2009), “Od wizji do rzeczywistości. Dziesięć lat dewolucji w Walii” (Warszawa 2011), “Reforma dewolucyjna w programach głównych partii politycznych w Walii w latach 1997-2011” (Toruń 2016) and ca. 70 articles about different aspects of Polish, Nordic and British regions development.

Žuber Bruna – a teaching assistant at the University of Ljubljana, Faculty of Law, Department of Administrative Law. She is also a senior judicial advisor at the Supreme Court of the Republic of Slovenia and professional advisor of the Institute of Public Administration, founded at the Law Faculty in Ljubljana. Within the field of constitutional law, her research is focused primarily on the constitutional procedural law and law of direct democracy, particularly on referendums. In 2018, Bruna Žuber published a scientific monography on judicial review of legislative referendums. She is an author of numerous original scientific articles, discussions, commentaries and reviews from the field of constitutional and administrative law. She is a member of the national expert group preparing direct democracy legislation and manages research projects on administrative procedural law.

